

Thoughts on the Daily Word

29th Week of the Year. Saturday 26th October. Readings: Ephesians 4:7-16; Psalm: 121; Gospel: Luke 13:1-9.

The saints together make up the Body of Christ. What a wonderful image of communion! We are back again in the image of being Catholic. Together we will not be at the mercy of tricksters or hackers! Together we can grow into maturity and not be blown about by every wind or trend of social media. Together we can bear fruit that will last in the vineyard. Repentance seems to be about discovering and living out our God given vocation as full members of the Catholic community we call Church, those called out, 'ekklesia'. Being Catholic means living out our baptism in the Spirit and being at one with a 'universal' Church while embracing all of humanity as brothers and sisters.
